Achievements of the Faculty of Law at Yarmouk University during the period of my deanship

The main duty of the dean is to achieve a high quality education and academic progress in his faculty. To be able to do so, I chaired the most important committees, such as quality assurance and accreditation committee, curriculum and exams committee, higher education committee, etc. I also monitored the academic performance of the faculty members in terms of teaching and research. This required a regular evaluation of their teaching skills and publications. As for new faculty members, special training courses were arranged for them. Hiring new competent academic staff and applying the most suitable quality assurance process made it easy for me to guide the Faculty towards meeting the international accreditation standards.

In the process of improving the quality of teaching, a special attention was made to practical courses, such as judicial applications and legal research methodology. An internship program was established to allow students to receive legal training before graduation.

At for the postgraduate level, we applied the modern international trend in the legal postgraduate studies which focuses on specialized branches of law. The master of commercial law, taught in the Faculty 2001 proved to be one of the leading programs in Jordan. Some of its courses are taught in English. It started with the track of taught courses and comprehensive exam but we have added the dissertation track. Furthermore, the admission requirements for this program were reviewed to guarantee quality inputs.

Two new master programs were established, i.e administrative and civil laws. These programs meet the international standards of the legal postgraduate studies and they were approved by the Jordanian Higher Education Council.

In addition to the curriculum, the Faculty was active in local and regional civil service. In 2008-2009, an international conference on judicial procedures was held in my Faculty; in 2009-2010 another international conference on professional liability was held. Also a symposium on landlord and tenant law and another one on medical liability were held in my Faculty. Apart from these public activities, I encouraged my colleagues to invite expert practitioners to lecture on practical matters that may interest our students.

The Faculty enjoyed excellent relations with the International Association of Law Schools (IALS), American Association of Law Schools and IREX organization. With the help of IREX, we developed a media law course based on the media course taught at Pennsylvania University.

All achievements in the Faculty were made under a quality assurance strategic plan that the Faculty prepared and was approved by Yarmouk University. In drafting the strategic plan, I certainly benefited from the ABA accreditation standards. The SWOT analysis was applied in order to recognize the opportunities of development and to overcome the obstacles that we may face. The Plan focused on a number of subjects (1.teaching, learning and assessment 2. students support services 3. Research 4. Community Services 5. Management).

Achievements of the Law Master Program at the British University in Dubai during my term

The program of MSc Construction Law and Dispute Resolution improved in terms of quality and students recruitment over the last 3 years. Starting from Sep 2011, when I joined the British University in Dubai, I managed to update all modules descriptors, restructure the curriculum and secure both academic and professional accreditation.

In addition the CAA academic accreditation in UAE, the program is recognized by Naric – UK and professionally accredited by the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators. It has also excellent industrial links, such as the Society of Construction Law (Gulf).

Now, the program has two tracks, i.e. the dissertation and project tracks. All modules include assessed assignments. New practical modules, such as the Arbitration Award Writing, were added.

International seminars and public talks were organized by the program team.
